

Syrian migration as a threat to the security of the European Union

Mădălina Elena Roberta MITIDOI¹

ARTICLE INFO

Article history:

Received 25.04.2017

Reviewed 27.04.2017

Confirmed 02.05.2017

Pages/words: 5/161

Keywords

Syrian migration causes conditions threatening security of European Union

ABSTRACT

Syrians migration emerged as a threat to the security of the European Union, after a series of attacks were registered, once with their leaving from their countries of origin and their receiving in the countries of destination. The attacks destroyed dozens of lives and troubled the peace of the citizens of the developed countries of Europe. In addition to all these security related issues, immigrants brought with them an increased number of offenses registered on the territories of the transit countries and an instability that is hard to control by the authorities. It has been noticed that most of the immigrants came from underdeveloped countries, especially from Syria, where armed conflicts are in a continuous development. Borders security was also put in difficulty by their illegal crossing from one country to another. Therefore, we are going to make now an analysis of Syrian migration, its causes, conditions and especially its effects that are produced both in the country of destination and at European and international levels.

Contents

1. Introduction	31
2. Content	32
3. Conclusions	34
4. Reference Text and Citations	35

♦♦♦♦

¹ Student, Alexandru Ioan Cuza Police Academy, Bucharest, Romania, mitidoi.roberta@yahoo.com